SOUTH KOREAN TROOPS LUNGE ACROSS 38TH PARALLEL ON E. KOREAN COAST; CAPTURE TOWN 5 MILES NORTH OF BORDER; "ROKS" REPORT SCATTERED RESISTANCE

Lunge North With Aid of Strong U. N. Naval Support

SEOUL DIFFICULTY
Communists Offer Sharp Rearguard Resistance Near Capital

By Howard Handelman

(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Feb. 12—(INS)—South Korean troops today lunged across the 38th Parallel on Korea's east coast and captured a small town five miles north of the border.

The ROK (Republic of Korea) Capitol Division followed the same road up the eastern coast which the South Korean Third Division took in making the first parallel crossing last fall.

The ROKS reported only scattered resistance as they plunged northward with the aid of strong United Nations naval support. The U. N. Navy a week ago helped the South Koreans break the resistance of three Red battalions that had stalled the northward drive at Kaungun, 18 miles below the boundary.

Elsewhere on the wide front however, U. N. forces were meeting stiffening resistance.

In the vicinity of Seoul, entered

Hi-Ho, Silver!

(By "The Stroller")

Members of a women's card club here are lucky to have escaped the "hoose-gow" on Thursday night. For while they were making big plans to "raze" one of the members from the first ward whom they charge is taking a trip west in search of a cow-boy, some of the huddies were seriously considering tipping off Bristol police that a "gang" planned to gather on Madison street, with faces covered by bandanas.

It appears that one of the members of a club which has been enjoying frequent card sessions for about 15 years, is soon to leave for the wild and woolly west. Her pals planned a surprise farewell for their session on Thursday evening, and someone had the bright idea of all dressing as "cow-boys."

So the mad scramble was on. There were visits to relatives' homes to borrow nephews' and grandsons' cow-boy hats, guns, holsters, and spurs; and trips to neighbors' places to borrow plaid shirts. Of course the huddies' trousers were confiscated for the occasion, whether they fitted or not. "What a fit!" is the way some are described by those privileged to have a look-see at the affair. And to make the job complete each wore a bandana across her face.

Then began the wait outside the Madison street house where the affair was to take place. It was at that stage of the set-up that some of the huddies thought it would be a good idea to have police surround the "gang" hiding in the shadows while they waited for the guest of honor to arrive and enter the house first. But it seems the huddies, who thought of tying the whole thing in with Bristol's recent "hold-ups" by masked bandits, were afflicted with a bad case of "cold feet."

MICHAEL DE RISI, 41, DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Bristol High Graduate Was Coach at Hammonton High for Two Years

FUNERAL TO BE HERE

A former resident of Bristol and a native here died suddenly in Cooper Hospital, Camden, N. J., Saturday. The victim, Michael DeRisi, had been ill with pneumonia but a short time, and was 41 years of age. He and his family made their home at 638 Grape street, Hammonton, N. J.

DeRisi had been football and baseball coach in Hammonton, N. J., for two years. In 1949 his football team made the best record of any team from the Hammonton high school since 1922, when it won seven games and lost only two. He also coached the Hammonton Peaches, a semi-pro football team.

DeRisi graduated from Bristol high school in 1929 and graduated at West Chester State Teachers' College in 1933. In his senior year he captained the baseball team there. He coached football, basketball and baseball while at Langhorne and Fallsington high schools. He was a member of St. Ann's A. A. and for two years coached the football team of that organization to the championship of Bucks county.

During the years of 1946 and 1947 his Langhorne football teams won the Lower Bucks County baseball and football championships. His baseball teams won 25 out of 39 games.

DeRisi was also active in independent sports. He played for over 20 years in Bristol twilight leagues, and until two seasons ago was a

PROTECT THE U. S. A.

Quite often it happens that those who are violently partisan in a matter get so carried away with their arguments that they lose touch with realities.

A case in point occurred recently in a New York Times editorial bemoaning the fact that the House of Representatives has written four restrictions into the law which would extend the Trade Agreements Act for three more years.

This, says the Times, is a "defeat in spirit" and "an unhealthy reversion to the spirit of protectionism." All this despite the fact that the Times seems to be unable to find any specific fault with any of the four provisions—the peril-point provision, the restrictions upon Communistic nations, the farm-support-price safeguard and the escape clause.

The Times' attitude on tariff matters is, of course, very well known. It speaks for the ship-owners, the importers and the international bankers, and it is against the protective tariff principle. If New York were a city of manufacturers, and not a city of merchants, perhaps the Times' story would be different. But in any event, the Times has a perfect right to make up its mind which side it is on, in tariff matters, and to defend that position.

What it does not have the same right to do, however, is to twist facts deliberately to prove its point—or even to slide into careless errors, by which facts are accidentally twisted—again, to the benefit of the Times' position in the matter.

The editorial commits one or the other of these sins when it goes on to speak of ... the spirit of protectionism that the United States previously repudiated as contrary to its own and to the world's best interests."

Now, the New York Times would be hard put indeed to prove that the United States has ever "repudiated the spirit of protectionism."

The ruling law on tariffs—which is the Smoot-Hawley Act of 1929—is protectionist to the core. The protective principle is spelled out in detail in that statute. The State Police Say . . .

Friends, have you ever stopped to weigh the safety of your family against a set of chains? Tests show that it is important to equip vehicles with chains under severe snow and ice conditions. The tests also show that inadequate traction and poor visibility are the principal causes of high winter accident rates. So, keep your wits and your windshield clear.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Everytime the British Labor Government survives a close vote, some of our boys shiver and say "There but for the framers of the Constitution go us!"

The difference between the British system and ours is they have a portable Premier and dispensable deputies. . . this permits an honest difference of opinion twenty-four hours a day including Sundays.

Under our system we take one deep breath every four years and hold our heads under water until the next beauty pageant.

The question is, which offers the greater opportunity to be wrong . . . a four-year crystal ball or a daily subscription to a tip sheet?

We are looking into the matter of a President serving no more than two terms. . . The Republicans are very much interested in this as they haven't had one since Mickey Rooney was a child star.

But, even if the States ratify the amendment, it will not affect the incumbent. . . not much does.

LINCOLN

There are many sides to the life of Lincoln, but one of the facets is lighted by an unquenchable flame. He loved his country better than any of its component parts.

The country then, as now, was riven by contending factions, pulled this way and that by considerations that were largely selfish. Lincoln's great mind penetrated to the heart of every problem. He was not hampered by thoughts of what a policy would gain for this or that group. He sought the solutions that would strengthen and benefit the nation.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right," he said—and those words still exert upon Americans the force of conscience. Here was no expediency, no thought of what a cute political trick might do to win an election, but a simple, straight-forward endeavor to learn what, in his human judgment, the country needed.

Lincoln was constantly hampered by self-seeking leaders, but to the end he hewed to the line of what he construed to be the greatest good to the greatest number.

America today needs men who are statesmen in the true sense of the word, as Lincoln was. It needs them in Washington, in labor, in management. The call is for men who will assay a situation in terms of essential values, and who will act without counting the cost as those deprived of special privilege emit outraged cries.

Lincoln was convinced that right makes might and did not hesitate to act boldly. It is the spirit of Lincoln that the nation applauds on the 142nd anniversary of his birth.

IS IT FOREVER?

The tremendous tax burden which President Truman advocates can never, of course, be anything to cheer about. It would, however, be slightly easier to bear if there were even a hint that it is of a temporary nature and that, when defense needs have been met, a return to something approaching normalcy will not be unlikely.

So far the American people have no assurances of any kind to this effect. All signs, indeed, point the other way. The President wants $71,000,000,000 for the coming fiscal year and estimates that $80,000,000,000 will be needed in the following year and $90,000,000,000 in the year after that.

Is there, then, no end to this business? If there isn't, the American people may as well prepare themselves for life under a broken-down economy and for an austerity which will make Great Britain's experience under Socialism look like the Golden Age.

If there is relief in prospect eventually—barring the coming of all-out war—somebody in authority should tell the people so. They need all the comfort they can get.

The government is hiring thousands of additional employees but still is unable to prevent the nails from breaking down periodically.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Sept. 18, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

LANGHORNE—The number of guests stopping at the Bellevue hotel has been greatly diminished during the past few days.

TULLYTOWN—I. L. Niece, the Frenchtown lumberman, was here on Friday to see after the sale of his wood lots at the Burton woods. The lots, as staked off, were about one-third acre each and contained standing timber and topwood in the rough, just as he left it last winter after having sawed out what he wanted for lumber. The wood went fast at private sale but Mr. Niece was not high in his prices. One man said he would rather buy wood in this rough condition than to buy coal, for coal only warmed you once while wood warmed you twice, warming you when you saw and split it as well as when you burn it.

Three hundred gas stoves are used in Bristol for cooking purposes.

A petition was filed at Doylestown on Friday for the transfer of the saloon license of Jane E. Blanche, on Buckley street, to Manus J. Sweeney.

The judges of the Burlington Merchants' Association have awarded the first prize of a barrel of flour to Mrs. Ella R. Force, of Cedar street, for the best biscuits which were submitted in competition at the recent merchants' picnic at the island park.

The rails for the trolley road have been delivered along the line from the Hollow bridge to Bloomsdale. A consignment of rails are also at Tullytown and Morrisville. The flat rails which will be used in the borough have been piled on the open lot, corner of Pond and Millberry streets. As soon as the ties arrive construction work will commence. They are expected any day. It is expected that the road from the Mill street railroad crossing to Morrisville will be completed by January 1st.

The new "Custodia" smoke stack which has been in the course of construction at the Bristol worsted mills for the past month, was finished on Tuesday and late in the afternoon an American flag was fastened at the top in honor of the event. The stack is cylindrical in shape and tapers toward the top. It is 150 feet in height and on the northwestern side the name "Grundy" in vertical form, appears in black letters. Patent perforated bricks were used in the building of the stack and it is claimed, that by reason of its peculiar construction, it will lean at an angle of almost 45 degrees before falling.

In last week's Gazette, in the Newportville correspondence, mention was made of a large tomato weighing a pound and a half, grown by John W. Birkey. Paxson Whildley, of Swain street, Bristol, says he picked one this week from the vines in his yard that weighed a pound and ten ounces. Newportville is great on ox-roasts but will have to stay back in raising prize vegetables.

About 50 boys, employed in the "tacking on" department of the Corona Kid Works, are out on a strike, having lodged a demand for a $1.50 increase in the weekly wage scale. The boys average about 16 years of age and are paid $8.50 per week, which is more than is paid at any other factory in Bristol for a similar class of help. A strike occurred about a year ago in the same department at the Corona Kid Works, at which time an increase in wages was granted.

On last Saturday evening a watermelon party was given at the home of Julian McLaughlin, Bloomsdale. Dancing was indulged in until midnight at the "yellow stone house," on the river bank and many watermelons were slaughtered and thoroughly enjoyed. The merry crowd were taken to their respective homes in Silas Slack's hay wagon. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Lippincott and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Lippincott, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Slack and family, Mrs. Mary McCoy, Mrs. Ella Strumfels, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wessau and daughter, John McGinley, Henry Eilers, Miss Lillie Summerfeld, Miss Wessau, Thomas Carl, Fred Hall, James Lynn, Leonard Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Julian McLaughlin, of Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vivian, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gabriel, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lewis, of Edgington; Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Brown and daughter, of Halmerville, and others.

year, are purchasing large quantities of nicotine and other chemicals.

Demand is being made for additional spraying materials and chemicals far beyond their usual needs.

The State College specialists pointed out there is a gradual change in the use of chemicals in spraying materials and that fruit growers and orchardists are using more liquid lines and sulphur. Spray oil is being used in very bad cases of scab. Another spray, both in liquid and powder form which is being used is di-nitro.

Bucks county's trees, following two pruning demonstrations in the Buckingham and Quakertown sections, last week, were described as in good shape.

Elbert W. Haldeman presided, and the following officers were re-elected: President, Elbert W. Haldeman, Doylestown; first vice-president, Eugene J. Roberts, Solebury township; second vice-president, David R. Johnson, Center Bridge, and secretary-treasurer, H. Lloyd Ott, Bedminster township, Ottsville, RD.

Following the dinner, an informal question and answer period was held during which Dr. Menusen and Dr. Burke answered spray and other fruit growers' problems.

moned for speeding over the Bristol Pike, State road and Rogers road, at speeds given between 70 and 80 miles per hour. Summonses are to be issued to these drivers, and they will be given hearings later.

Officers in the Bristol township police patrol car, in going through the Hunter tract off Rogers road, had their attention attracted to a car parked near the Kemline building. As the patrol car approached, the parked car leaped into life and with lights flashing on, headed south on Rogers road. The car was travelling at terrific speed, police say, and it swerved into Old Rogers road where it crashed into a pole, snapping it off. The police car was travelling too fast to make the turn into Old Rogers road and continued on to Newport road and then headed back into Old Rogers road, where they found the car had crashed into the pole. The occupants had fled.

Upon investigation the police learned that the occupants of the car were George F. Cliver, 21, 205 Otter street, and William Binkley, 15, of 338 Old Bath street, Bristol. Police Chief Seader, in checking ownership of the car through Harrisburg, received a telephone call from Binkley's mother, inquiring as to what had happened to her son. Seader then called at the Binkley residence where he received further information, stating that Cliver was the driver of the car. Cliver was later taken into custody. Binkley had cuts and abrasions of the knee and chin, and was considerably shaken up.

in the name of the law! In the name of the lives of our children!

The School Bus Law, now being enforced, requires all drivers to stop their cars when approaching the front or rear of a school bus which is receiving or discharging children while parked along a rural highway.

There is a mighty good reason for this. We want to save the lives of our children. We want to make it impossible for you ever to run over a child.

When a school bus stops on a street or highway beyond business or residential districts, usually it is to pick up a child on his way to school, or to let off a child on his way home. The child needs time to get on or off safely. To provide the necessary SAFE TIME, all vehicles must come to a halt (except when approaching the front of a bus on a four-lane highway) until the bus starts to move again.

Obedience to the School Bus Law may take a minute or so of your time. But surely the slight delay is unimportant when weighed against the injury or death of a child.

So STOP when school buses are stopped along rural highways. This precaution is another step in the vital effort to help you to save our children from tragic traffic accidents.

DON'T JUST TALK SAFETY... Live Safety!

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

between 65 and 70 years of age, five feet and six inches tall, 150 pounds, blue eyes, gray hair and bald in center of head. Tatoo marks on left arm appeared to be WARHORN with "H S" and an American flag emblem.

On the right arm was tattooed a double heart with star.

The man wore a railroad cap, blue sweater, gray overcoat, three pairs of trousers of different colors and the initial "J" on belt buckle, brown shoes.

The body was frozen stiff and apparently had been out in the cold for several days and there was evidence of a stroke as the left side of the face was drawn.

Police yesterday took fingerprints and efforts to identify the man by this means will be made. There was no wallet, cards or papers in the clothing.

South Korean Troops Lunge Across The 38th Parallel

by a ROK patrol, the Communists were offering sharp rearward resistance. International News Service war correspondent Robert Schakne reported that the Red defenders had repulsed two attempts by South Koreans to reinforce the small patrol on the north bank of the Han river.

The major Communist counterblows were directed against U. N. forces in the rugged center of the peninsula. There the Reds hurled attacks that were the heaviest felt by friendly forces in nine days.

The Reds also held firm in the area between Seoul and Ichon, 30 miles to the southeast. Only on the extreme west coast were Allied troops able to advance at will.

Frontline reports from central Korea said ROK units there had been sent reeling backward as much as three miles by heavy Red attacks north of Hoengsong, 53 miles east southeast of Seoul astride the main road through the Soback mountains.

A dispatch from the central front said that cavalry-led Chinese hurled a powerful counterattack early Monday northwest of Hoengsong and drove two Allied regiments back 3,000 yards and cut one lateral road near the town.

To the southeast heavy Red concentrations were reported on a mountain road. One Communist force of 3,000 threw back South Korean advance units in the area 14 miles north northwest of Pyongyang.

Two other Communist attacks were repulsed in that area but front line South Korean officers reported the Reds have massed more than 9,000 troops in the sector.

The Red attacks and the reported buildup of Communist forces in the area presaged a long-expected enemy attempt in central Korea to outflank UN troops who drove Chinese from the south bank of the Han below Seoul.

An Eighth Army spokesman said that since the Red attacks in the central sector were sporadic, though heavy, it was not yet clear whether the Reds had unleashed their long-expected large scale counter-offensive.

On the west coast members of a task force probed northward to Sapor, 18 miles northwest of Seoul's suburb of Yongdungpo.

Troops of the U. S. Third Division crossed the Han five miles to the southwest of Seoul.

To the south of the blackened and battered capital city the Reds made two attempts to cross the Han river Monday but United Nations troops, aided by heavy artillery barrages, turned the Reds back.

Tells Civic Association Of Supervisors' Meetings

FALLSINGTON, Feb. 12—The Civic Association held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in Community Hall, with about 25 attending.

Joseph Winder, president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Emily Coghlan read the secretary's report, and Melvin Rose reported on the finances.

The organization now has 52 members.

At the close of the business session, Harrison Carver, Falls township supervisor, was introduced. He told that Falls township has 27 miles of road to maintain, and that the steel company will take seven miles. All of the roads are black top but two. Seven miles of road is resurfaced every year at the cost of $1500 a mile. Each year they receive an appropriation from the State and a sum from the liquor taxes.

A supervisor is elected for a six-year term. Anyone may attend the supervisors' meetings that are held the first Tuesday of each month at the home of the secretary, John Melvin, and the books are open for inspection at any time.

The township owes no bills and the newly-built building for equipment is paid for. Each year they donate $1000 to the township fire company.

Refreshments were served by chairman Gerald Roeser.

The next meeting will be held March 7th at Community Hall with Medill Bair, regional supervising principal of Pennsbury schools to be the speaker.

ROHM & HAAS TOPS CORNWELLS, WINNING 60 TO 53

In an overtime tilt yesterday, Rohm and Haas topped the Cornwells Boys' Club, 60-53, on the winners' court in a Bristol Basketball League tilt.

Cornwells had a 48-47 lead with one minute to play but a foul goal by "Augie" Everitt knotted the count. "Pete" Bound put Cornwells ahead with a double-decker but Marty Braam tied the count at 50-50. The chemical mixers then "froze" the ball to send the tilt into an extra session.

In the extra five minutes, "Jim" Egli scored twice for Rohm and Haas with Everett, Braam, and "Chuck" Klein also cutting the cords for fielders. For Cornwells, "Jim" Dwyer scored three points.

"Bill" Butz scored 22 points for the losing team with "Bill" Curran getting 10. The latter was put out on personals in the fourth quarter.

Egli had 21 points for the Maple Beach aggregation. The winners fared poorly from the foul line, converting but four out of 13 while Cornwells dunked 9 out of 11.

LUCISANO BREAKS SCORING RECORD OF LOCAL LEAGUE

Defensive basketball was thrown to the winds yesterday afternoon as the Lucisano Brothers team broke the scoring record of the Bristol Basketball League with a rousing 94-58 triumph over the Fifth Ward Sporting Club. The win moved the Tullytown team into undisputed possession of first place.

Neither team produced any kind of a defense in the tilt. The Lucisano boys got off to a 15-0 start in the first four minutes of play. The Warders also scored in spurts but never were in striking distance of the Lucisano total.

In the third quarter, both teams scored 22 points, making 44 points in ten minutes of action. During the entire tilt, the average was close to 4 points a minute.

Lucisano scored a total of 44 double-deckers with Dick Anderson tallying eleven and Roy Lynch, eight. For Fifth Ward, Ray Pierandozzi had 14 points and both Joe Potena and Bob Calone basketed 12. The latter played the second half only.

When a Baby Is Expected

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FORTUNATE is the young child whose mother tells him in due time of the expected baby. To tell the child too soon, especially if he is under five or six, may cause him to feel impatient at the long waiting. Usually it is soon enough when the relatives and close friends know without being told.

The information can be made very impressive after the baby has begun to move in the mother's body. How wonderful when the child old enough can see the clothes and materials made and assembled in preparation for this baby, the more so if this older child can help a bit in the selection and making of these things; when, moreover, the older child or children can talk in the family privacy about "our baby that is coming" and consider the choice of a name for him or her! Usually best values accrue therefrom when all the family enjoy these matters as a family secret among themselves. (My bulletins "A Baby Is Expected" and "Undesirable Sex Practices in Children" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper.)

A Problem

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have a problem on my mind. I would like to ask your advice. We are going to have a new baby in our family in August. I have two other children. My oldest will be 9 in June. Up to this time she has never asked any questions or showed interest in coming babies. She has never asked any questions, so I never had the chance to tell her the truth. She is a very happy child, Dr. Myers. In summer our family has a wonderful time. We do a lot of things together, such as going on picnics, swimming, and hot-dog roasts. It makes us feel young. We enjoy every minute of it, too.

"That is why I feel as if she should be prepared for our coming baby. I would like you to tell me when you think she should be told. Then I am going to sit down and explain everything to her. I intend to let her help me sew and choose the materials for the baby's layette. I want her to feel as if she were taking a part in helping with the baby's things. I haven't told my friends yet because I was afraid one of them would tell her."

I wrote this mother about in this fashion: Wonderful are the happy times you all have together in your family! These grand relationships will make your fine purpose to tell your daughter about the expected baby easy to carry through.

Relaxed and Quiet

As soon as movements of the baby are rather pronounced, sit down with that daughter at a relaxed, quiet, comfortable moment, preferably with the father present, and tell her in your own way that she is going to have a baby brother or sister and that it is growing in your body. Have her place her hand on your abdomen to sense the baby's movements. This will make a fine impression on this daughter. Tell her that when the baby has grown enough in your body it will come out of your body or be born and that the doctor will help this child to be born (at the hospital or at home; as the case may be. Tell her about how many weeks or months all of you may have to wait for this time.

Perhaps other mothers would be wise to stimulate questions about where babies come from when the child is much younger than nine. One of the best books for parents on this subject is "Being Born," by Frances Strain, to be found in most public libraries.

Will Form Boy Scout Troop in Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 12 — With the hope that a Boy Scout troop might be formed in this community, under sponsorship of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association, several interested individuals gathered in the school house on Thursday evening. Decision was made at that time to form such a troop.

Solomon A. Miller, Langhorne Manor, an official of the Delaware Valley district, Boy Scouts, and Thurman Gates, Yardley, field executive, spoke to the group, which included: Fred Hermann, Lester D. Spill, Ross Buckman, and Frank Binder, of the P. T. A.

The purpose of the session was to learn the method of organizing a troop, and the responsibilities involved.

Parents of boys of eligible age, are invited to meet on Thursday, Feb. 15th, at eight p. m., in the school house here. A Scouting film will be followed by the serving of refreshments.
